Corrections

The Western New York Heritage editorial staff would like to correct the following errors in our Fall 2007 issue:

Our table of contents incorrectly states that Andrew Jackson is featured in Graham Millar's "Presidential Appearances" on page 50. The story actually highlights Andrew Johnson's visit to Buffalo.

County Savings Bank at the corner of Pearl and Court streets (p. 54). An additional image of the bank (p. 55) was also identified as being from that corner. Both images actually show the corner of Pearl and Church streets.

"Graycliff: The Natural House" incorrectly attributes the ground floor plan (top, p. 10) to Graycliff Conservancy. The credit should correctly read as follows: Plan of Isabelle Martin Residence, S.225 in The Frank Lloyd Wright Companion by William Allin Storrer © 1993 The Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation.

We sincerely regret the errors.

Behind Our Cover

By John H. Conlin

Thelma Winter loves to paint old mills. She has painted the Eden Valley Mill in every season. The building, which still survives on its original site, is a symbol of the history of the Town of Eden. The Town now owns it.

Thelma did not begin her career as an artist until she was 53 years of age. Before that, the mother of four was a piano teacher for 30 years. Today she has an ongoing career spanning more than 20 years. She has won numerous awards for her work.

Thelma Winter's artistic vision is undeniably flowery and upbeat. There is nothing fuzzy here. Her work is straightforward, hard-edged and precise. There are, however, abundant subtle plays of color and light. Her tendency toward mild nostalgia seems to be continually overruled by a sheer delight in nature. Thelma communicates her views of the changing seasons with verve; whether it is the crystal, cold, blue and white of the winter sky or the dappled sunlight playing on a summer sidewalk.
